Unless otherwise stated, Linux HOWTO documents are copyrighted by their respective authors. Permission is granted to copy, distribute and/or modify these documents under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License, Version 1.1 or any later version published by the Free Software Foundation; with no Invariant Sections, no Front-Cover Texts and no Back-Cover Texts. A copy of the license is included in the section entitled "GNU Free Documentation License".
All LDP HOWTOs may be distributed and used freely in non-commercial ways.
You may not distribute this document in a commercial way without express permission from the author.
Any translations, derivative works, or aggregate works containing any LDP HOWTOs must be covered by this same boilerplate.
You may create a derivative work from a HOWTO and distribute it provided that you do one of the following:
1) Send a copy of the derivative work to the author(s) of the HOWTO(s) at least 30 days before distribution.
2) Make sure all changes are clearly documented and that the author(s) of the HOWTO(s) are aware of these changes.
3) Make sure your derivative work includes a pointer to where the latest distribution can be found.
4) Make sure your derivative work includes a copyright and boilerplate notice as well as a clear statement that no further restrictions may be added to this document.
These terms are subject to change. Distribution rights are granted at the discretion of the author(s).
